AQUA DE MAGNOLIA.—The prettiest thing, the "sweetest thing," and the most of it for the least money. It can be obtained everywhere at one dollar per bottle.

S. T.—1860.—X.—The amount of Plantation Bitters sold in one year is something startling. They would fill Broadway six feet high, from the Park to 4th street.—Drake's manufactory is one of the institutions of N. York. It is said that Drake painted all the rocks in the eastern States with his cabalistic "S. T.—1860.—X." and then got the old granny legislators to pass a law preventing disfiguring the face of nature," which gives him a monopoly. We do not know how this is, but we do know the Plantation Bitters sell as no other article ever did. They are used by all classes of the community, and are death on Dyspepsia—certain. They are very invigorating when languid and weak, and a great appetizer.

WHAT DID IT?—A young lady, returning to her country home after a sojourn of a few months in New York, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion, of almost marble smoothness; and instead of 22, she really appeared but 17. She told them plainly she used Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and would not be without it. Any lady can improve her personal appearance very much by using this article. It can be ordered of any Druggist for only 50 cents.

"HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS!"

MISS ALLIE ARNOLD.

O Thou, in whose Almighty hand
The earth's foundations firmly stand,
And heaving oceans rise and fall,
Thee, the Creator, man shall fear,
So manifold Thy works appear!
In wisdom hast Thou made them all!

The heavens are Thine—stars speak Thy praise,
Point with a thousand trembling rays
The pathway where Thy feet have trod!
They roll along the deep blue arch,
And serve in their eternal march
The [illegible] ing armies of [illegible] God!

* * * * *

How grand the ever-drifting clouds!
How beautiful those showy shrouds
That float along 'twixt earth and heaven!
And yet—how fearful in their wrath,
When lurid lightnings mark their path,
And they by tempest winds are driven!

But when Thy hand hath hushed the storm,
And thrown the sunbeams bright and warm
Upon the tearful earth again,
How like an emblem of Thy love
The bright-hued rainbow bends above,
And spans the misty vail of rain!

Anecdotes of Dogs.

It is almost impossible to overrate the sagacity of a dog, or his affection towards his master. Many stories have been told of dogs who have remembered their master after years of absence; and of some who would not forsake them in their graves even preferring starvation to being separated from them.

I am going to relate two anecdotes of dogs that have come under my own knowledge. One is of a black retriever, a very handsome dog, belonging to Captain Knollys, who was, at that time, living in a cottage which he had taken for the purpose of fishing. An old woman, who cooked for him and his dog Nora, were the only inmates of his house. One morning he received a letter which obliged him to set off immediately to meet a friend upon business. He did not particularly wish to take Nora with him, but the old woman was so alarmed at the responsibility of having charge of the dog even for a day; that, as he thought it more than probable that Nora would attempt to follow him and be lost in consequence, he agreed to take her. It was before railroads had penetrated into the heart of the country, and Captain Knollys had ten miles to drive before he could meet the stage which was to take him to the city he desired to visit. Nora, who had been walking round her master in a very unsettled state of mind, as soon as she saw the carpet bag, that always accompanied him when he travelled, knew perfectly well that a journey was impending, and jumped upon him, licking his hand, as if imploring not to be left behind.

"You will have a long way to run, Nora, if I take you, for no one will give a lift to such a great dog as you," he said, patting her. "Will you come, or stay home?" Nora answered by wagging her tail and lying down by the side of the bag, which was packed and put in the hall with the stick, fishing-rod, and umbrella, evidently waiting for the gig to come to the door. As soon as she heard the wheels she jumped in, as if there should be no further question of leaving her. She curled herself up under the seat, remaining perfectly quiet till they reached the village through which the coach was to pass. It was a lumbering two-horse vehicle, and went slowly enough through a wild and hilly country. Captain Knollys merely told Nora to follow, and concerned himself no more about her, meaning to petition the driver to take her up at the end of the first stage if she was tired.

Nora trotted on in the middle of the road, looking neither to the right nor the left, without deigning to notice the yelping little curs that snarled and barked at her as the coach passed through the many small villages that lay in their road.' The stage was rather crowded on the outside, and Captain Knollys finding his carpet bag in the way tied it to the bar of the seat with a piece of strong cord that he happened to have in his pocket. Strong as it was, however, it soon became worn by the continual friction, and after a few miles was quite cut through, when, of course, the bag fell to the ground. Poor Nora must have been terribly perplexed when she saw it fall, for she knew that she ought to follow her master, and also that it was her duty to take care of his bag. Perhaps she fancied that it had been thrown down expressly to be left in her charge.

When the coach arrived at its destination, Captain Knollys whistled for Nora, but she was nowhere to be seen, and to his still greater consternation his bag was gone also, though the bit of rope which remained dangling to the iron bar told its own story. He could not continue his journey without his carpet bag, and to lose Nora would have been a real sorrow. He was obliged to let the stage go on without him, while he walked some way back, but seeing nothing he went back to the inn. There he hired a carriage, meaning to return by the road by which he had come till he could find his bag, or hear something of Nora. He drove several miles without seeing anything either of his dog or his bag, and was beginning to feel very uneasy as to what might have befallen both, when, at the top of a steep hill, he saw something that looked like a huge black bundle slowly approaching. As he came nearer, he saw that it was his own good dog, who, believing that two conflicting duties had fallen to her share, that of following her master and of taking care of his property, had contrived to combine them, and had walked several miles dragging the carpet bag along the road with her teeth.

As soon as she saw her master she lay down, panting and exhausted, as if to say, "Now I have done all I can for you, I hope, at least, that you will relieve me of my burden, and give me a lift." Captain Knollys put her into the carriage at once, and rewarded her sagacity by giving Nora a place by his side.

The other dog I am going to tell you about was one of a different kind, and who had not near such a gentle, amiable disposition as our friend Nora. Rapp was a mastiff, not an especially good tempered dog, and very capricious in his likes and dislikes. He belonged to Mr. E——, who had sent him to be trained. There he attached himself especially to the trainer's daughter, and was her constant companion. It happened that when Rapp was considered fit to be promoted to live in the house, this girl was at the same time taken into the house as kitchen-maid. It was part of her duty to get up very early, so as to light all the fires in the offices before the other servants came down. To do this, she was obliged to cross a court-yard several times to fetch wood from the wood house. As soon as ever the stable door was opened in the morning, and Rapp let free, he came to the kitchen-door, and whined till the girl left him in, looking about after her till she had finished the morning work.

"Oh, Rapp," she said to him one day, as he stood by, wagging his tail and sniffing at her shoulders, as she was lighting the kitchen fire, "I shall never get wood enough. How I wish you could help me to carry in the sticks; I should be able to get twice as much in the time." The next day the girl took Rapp with her into the wood-house, and putting a fagot into his mouth taught him to accompany her back to the house, and to carry the sticks for her. A day or two afterwards she found, to her surprise, that when she let him into the kitchen in the morning he had a fagot in his mouth. Delighted with his sagacity, she patted him, gave him something to eat, and sent him back to the wood-house for more. By degrees, he understood so well what she wanted that he brought fire-wood into the house for her every morning, the girl always thanking him, and giving him a plate of cold meat when he had brought enough.

This went on for some time, and had become the dog's daily habit, when one day that the family were going away very early the girl was so hurried that Poor Rapp was quite unnoticed. She saw, however, that he had brought in the sticks as usual, and laid them on the hearth; but she did not light the fire immediately, and, to her surprise, saw the dog, after waiting a few minutes, deliberately take fagot after fagot in his mouth, and carry them away. Curious to see what he intended to do with them, she followed him quietly, and saw that he had put them back in the place from whence he had taken them. He evidently had no intention of working without payment, and chose this way of testifying his displeasure.

A Singular Adventure.

Once upon a time a traveler stepped into a stage coach. He was a young man starting in life. He found six passengers about him, all gray headed and extremely aged men. The youngest appeared to have been at least eighty winters. Our young traveler, struck with the singular mild and happy aspect which distinguished all his fellow passengers, determined to ascertain the secret of a long life and art of making old age comfortable; he addressed the one apparently the eldest who told him he had always led a regular and abstemious life, eating vegetables and drinking water. The young man was rather daunted at this, inasmuch as he liked the good things of this life. He addressed the second, who astonished him by saying he had always eaten roast beef, and gone to bed regularly fuddled for the last seventy years, adding, all depended on regularity. The third had prolonged his days by never seeking or accepting office; the fourth by resolutely abstaining from all political or religious controversies; and the fifth by going to bed at sunset and rising at dawn. The six was apparently much younger than the other five—his hair was less gray and there was more of it—a placid smile, denoting a perfectly easy conscience, mantled his face, and his voice was jocund and strong.

They were all surprised to learn that he was by ten years the oldest man in the coach.

"How is it that you have thus preserved the freshness of life?" exclaimed our young traveler.

The old gentleman immediately answered the young traveler by saying:

"I have drank water and wine—I have eaten meat and vegetables—I have dabbled in politics and written religious pamplets—I have sometimes gone to bed at midnight; and got up at sunrise and at noon," he then fixing his eyes intensely upon the young man, concluded with this singular remark: "But I always pay promptly for my newspapers."

☞An Irish lad having been asked if the man who had last flogged him was his own father, replied: "Yis, sure he is the parent iv me; but he trates me as if I was his son by another father and mother, bad luck to him."

☞A light employment—making candles.

How an Editor gets Criticised.

To run the local department of a newspaper in a town not out of its pantalettes, is a job the difficulties of which are but dimly appreciated by those who never undertook it. If a body would get up a "local" less dry than a basket of chips; if he would pepper, and spice and salt and sauce it; if he would indite something sort of lively, brisk, gingery, then with one set of readers, the fat is all in the fire, and the "local" is exerting a bad influence. If, on the other hand, he puts on a long, sactimonious face, writes lugubrious locals, with Lindley Murray, Baxter's Saint's Rest (?) and the Martyrs before him; records common events gloomily and haltingly as some Christians travel the "narrow path," then another set of readers would make no bones of telling him to his face that they would much prefer a "wooden man" for a "local" to him. And, then, again, some people are forever getting their toes stepped on by the "local" for which he ought to be kicked, in their humble opinion, and that individual is always "hitting" somebody in items that have no reference to anybody in heaven or earth; double entendres, and heathen inuendoes are met with where nothing of the kind exists; and to sum it all up, the "local" is a cuss anyhow. One's literary taste is violated! another's moral sensibilities are butchered; another's religious notions are earthquaked, and still another don't like the "local" department because of its pretensions to literature, morals, and religion. One don't find fun in the "local"; another don't see so much gravity as he would; one wants the "local" to do a wholesome business at "pitching into" somebody; another won't read it because it is always "pitching into" somebody. And so it is—these are some of "local's" woes, which might be multiplied by forty, and bottom not touched. We are going to do our level best to please ourselves, and trust to the chances to please everybody else, and if people want to criticise the editor, why, we shall laugh at and let 'em.

CONVERSATION.—How incalculably would the tone of conversation be improved if it offered no exceptions to the example of Bishop Beveridge!—"Reserve never to speak of a man's virtues to his face, nor his faults behind his back." A golden rule, the observance of which would at once banish flattery and defamation from the earth. Conversation stock being a joint and common property, every one should take a share in it, and yet there may be societies in which silence will be our best contribution. When Isocrates, dining with the King of Cyprus, was asked why he did not mix in the discourse of the company, he replied, "What is seasonable I do not know, and what I know is not seasonable." A brilliant talker is not always liked by those whom he has most amused, for we are seldom pleased with those who have in any way made us feel our inferiority. "The happiest conversation," says Dr. Johnson, "is that of which is distinctly remembered, but which leaves behind a pleasing impression." "No one," says Dean Locker, "will ever shine in conversation who thinks of saying fine things; to please, one must say many things indifferent and many very bad." This last rule is rarely broken in society.

POWER OF AN AX.—The other day I was holding a man by the hand—a hand as firm in its outer texture as leather, and his sunburnt face was as inflexible as parchment—he was pouring forth a tirade of comtempt on those who complain that they get nothing to do, as an excuse for becoming idle loafers.

Said I, "Jeff, what do you work at?"

"Why, said he, "I bought me an ax three years ago, that cost me two dollars. That was all the money I had. I went to chopping wood by the cord. I have done nothing else, and have earned more than $600, drank no grog, paid no doctor, and have bought me a little farm in the Hoosier State, and shall be married next week to a girl who has earned $200 since she was eighteen. My old ax I shall keep in the drawer, and buy me a new one to cut wood with."

After I left him I thought to myself: "That ax and no grog." These are the things that make a man in the world. How small a capital that ax—how sure success with the motto, "No grog." And then a farm and a wife, the best of all.

☞"Mother," asked a tall gawkey, "what did you and dad used to do when he came courting you?" "Good arth and seas! what put that in the boy's head? What do you mean, Jedediah?" "Well, I went over to see Peggy Haskins t'other night, and she told me I didn't know how to court. I asked her to show me, and soz she, "Ax your marm." What did you do, mother?" "La! suz! Why, Jed, we used to sit in the corner and eat roast turkey!" "Good gracious! times arn't as they used to be, mother, sartin; the only thing Peggy gin me was a raw pickle!"

☞A New York officer who was up before the Police Commissioners the other day on a charge of drunkenness, made the following rather lame defence: "I had been out all night; I was wet and tired; I took one single hot whisky before I went into the ranks; I had also had my hair cut that day, and whether it was the whisky or my having had my hair cut that made me act so queer, I don't know."

☞To have tarts for tea, let your wife see you kiss the waiting maid. A sure thing.

Knocked About.

It is a good thing for a man to be knocked about in the world, though his soft-hearted parents may not think so. All youths, or if not all, certainly nineteen-twentieths of the sum total, enter life with a surplusage of self-conceit. The sooner they are relieved of it the better. If, in measuring themselves with wiser and older men, they discover that it is unwarranted, and get rid of it gracefully, of their own accord, well and good; if not, it is desirable, for their own sakes, that it be knocked out of them.

A boy who is sent too large school soon finds his level. His will may have been paramount at home; but schoolboys are democratic in their ideas, and it arrogant, he is sure to be thrashed into a recognition of the golden rule. The world is a great public school, and it soon teaches a new pupil his proper place. If he has the attributes that belong to a leader, he will be installed into the position of leader; if not, whatever his own opinion of his abilities may be, he will be compelled to fall back with the rank and file. If not destined to greatness, the next best thing which he can aspire to is respectability; but no man can be either truly great or respectable who is vain, pompous, and overbearing.

By the time the novice has found his legitimate social position, be the same high or low, the probability is that the disagreeable traits of his character will be softened down or worn away. Most likely the process of abrasion will be rough, perhaps very rough; but when it is all over, and he begins to see himself as others see him, and not as reflected in the mirror of self-conceit, he will be thankful that he has run the gauntlet, and arrived, though by a rough road at self-knowledge. Upon the whole, whatever loving mothers may think to the contrary, it is a good thing for youths to be knocked about in the world: it makes men of them.

Never Give Up.

Many a premature death has occurred in consequence of giving up. The sick person becomes discouraged, thinks he is going to die, and dies. Friends think they have done all they could, death is inevitable, and the disease take its course. There can be no doubt but that in many such cases hope still cherished, and the persevering use of means, might have saved useful life.

So also in the struggles of active life. The first speech of Disraeli in the House of Commons, was a complete failure, his speech it is said being stifled in the derisive laughter of the House. He thus closed: "I shall sit down now, but the time will come when you will hear it." Numbers have sunk into insignificance under a less rebuff. Disraeli was made of sterner stuff. Though it took him seven years to recover from his disaster, he redeemed his promise, and on becoming chancellor of the exchequer, "clad in the same garments he had worn at the time of his renowned failure, delivered to a closely crowded assemblage the most brilliant and the ablest budget speech that had been heard there since the days of William Pitt."

Every one should feel that he is immortal till his work is done. "Try again," is as good for the adult as for the child. If convinced that our cause is wrong, the sooner it is renounced the better. Cease to do evil; but when contending for the right, admit no defeat as final. We learn sometimes more from a failure than a success, and turn it to better account. Such should ever be our aim. Use all honorable means, rely on the ultimate triumph of right, persevere in the effort to deserve success, and failure will never be inscribed on your life work. The irresolute and half-hearted have no good to expect, for that would only be a premium of imbecility.

☞When girls are grown up they begin to be courted and caressed; then they think, that the recommending themselves to the affection of the men is the only business they have to attend to and so presently fall to tricking, and dressing, and practising all the little engaging arts peculiar to their sex. In these they place all their hopes, as they do all their happiness in the success of them. But it is fit they should be given to understand, that there are other attractions much more powerful than these; that the respect we pay them is not due to their beauty, so much as to their modesty and innocence, and unaffected virtue. And that these are the true, the irresistible charms, such as will make the surest and most lasting conquests.

☞Artemus Ward says in "His Book," "A female woman is one of the greatest institootions of which the land can boste. She is good in sickness—good in wellness—good all the time. Oh, woman, woman! You are an angel when you behave yourself; but when you take off your proper appairal, and (metiforically speaking) get into pantaloons, and undertake to play the man, you play the devil, and are an omfatic nuosance."

☞During a steam voyage, on a sudden stoppage of the machinery, considerable alarm took place, especially among the female passengers. "What is the matter? What is the matter? For Heaven's sake, tell me the worst!" exclaimed one more anxious than the rest. After a short pause a hoarse voice from the deck replied: "Nothing, madam, nothing, only the bottom of the vessel and the top of the earth are stuck together."

☞An exchange says lovers, like armies, generally get along quietly until they are engaged.

Temperance Topics.

A Curse to the Country.

Next to the inordinate use of intoxicating beverages we may probably class the haste to become rich as a deplorable evil—the desire and expectation of getting something for nothing, or for a very inadequate equivalent, if we may use the word in such a sense—which lead so many of our youth to abandon trades in order to swell the crowds of clerks, lawyers, doctors, &c., now and always so largely in excess of the demand for their services. A desire to be rich is not in itself wrong, but the tendency is not to scruple at the means, and to end in disgrace and ruin.

There are cases where a young man is justifiable in getting into debt—there are cases where a few years of a struggle with indebtedness may do him good—but these are "the exceptions which prove the rule" correct that debt is incompatible with independence, and should be avoided. Borrowing money on interest is a curse to any young man, eating up his earnings and keeping him poor. The man who saves even a few dollars a year, and invests it at interest, will eventually become rich whilst the one who borrows to make up the deficit occasioned by extravagance, or venturing beyond his means, will undoubtedly struggle all his life to keep his head above water.

Avoid "speculation," mistrust all schemes promising returns, whether lotteries, faro banks, or more respectable modes of gambling; be assured that any gains that may accrue from them are more than lost by the taste they give for inordinate risks. If you call to mind the lucky individuals who have become wealthy in this way in the past twenty years, you will find nearly all of them poor now—the money has gone as rapidly as it came, and is teaching the same lesson to its present possessors. A dollar earned by honest industry, mental or physical, is worth more to the man who earns it than tenfold gained by speculation, and is not near so likely to be expended foolishly or risked recklessly. He who can save such a dollar will more probably accumulate wealth in life than the one without industry who makes more money with less work. It is deplorable how many of our young unmarried men waste their earnings in folly and dissipation, and are "too poor to get married"—or, if they marry, have acquired such tastes and habits as tend to render that relation anything but an agreeable one. There can be no good reason for a young lady and healthy single man, having no one dependent upon him, not saving something every year for investment, and it is to be regretted so few do so.

How he got Drunk.

A Chicago paper contains the following confession made by a prisoner arraigned before the police court of that city for drunkenness: "I am A. P. Griffin. I want to call myself Smith, but I cannot tell a lie. I'd be sure to betray myself. Last night I visited a friend; and took supper with him. Brandied peaches were on the table, and I ate many of them. They were nice, and I had an appetite. Strange to say, they improved my conversational powers. I was witty. Whenever I spoke every one laughed. I got off a conundrum. I was wicked, but oh, how funny. It was "which of the Apostles is good to drink!" Paul, because a pall is a bier. It's a rule of three conundrum.

Then I left for home. I hayn't reached it yet. On my way there a missionary awoke in me. I would see what a haunt of iniquity a rum shop looked like. I called for brandied peaches without the peaches. It was given me, and I drank it. The bar-keeper demanded twenty cents. Said I: "Friend, I am a missionarys. Consequently I shall pay thee in tracts. Here are two dozen of them. Read and profit thereby." He wouldn't take them. He cursed me. Then I got angry, and forgot that I was a Christian. I said 'confound you.' But I had to pay him. It would seem that sometimes the wages of sin are twenty cents. What I did after that I don't know, I know my head aches. I know my hair is filled with ashes. I know I am a wicked sinner.

Now, Mr. Justice, don't fine me. If I didn't act right when I was drunk, it wasn't my fault. There is no handbook of drunkenness to teach me. I am going to write out my last night's experience. It will be in the form of a tract. I will send you some that will make some nice Christmas gifts." To discourage people from becoming drunk on peaches, A. P. was fined $10.

"MY BOY DRUNK!—Drunk! my boy drunk!" and the tears started from the mother's eyes, as she bent her head in unutterable sorrow. In that moment the vision of a useful and honorable career was destroyed, and one of worthlessness, if not absolute dishonor, presented itself. Well did she know that intemperance walks hand in hand with poverty, shame and death; and her mother-heart was pierced as with sharp pointed steel. Ah! young man, if the holy feeling of love for her who bore you is not dead within you, shun that which gives her pain, adhere to that which gives her joy. If she is with you on earth, she does not, cannot, desire to see her son a drunkard; if she is with her Father in Heaven she shuns that course of life which shuts the gates of Heaven against you, and debars you from her society forever. The drunkard cannot inherit the Kingdom of God.

☞A scribbler says life is too short to drink poor whisky, or to make love to an ugly woman.

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, April 24, 1867.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

THE probabilities of war in Europe during the coming summer is keeping up the price of produce and may run it up still higher.

☞The Senate adjourned sine die on Saturday last, the 20th. The President was present to facilitate the transaction of business.

THE little arrangement between our member of Congress, Mr. Morrell, and John Nash & Co., by which the latter was to pocket $500 as the price of his "loyalty" to his party didn't work to perfection—it didn't. We didn't suppose our new Congressman would so soon be corrupted, and that he would attempt to lead our neighbors into Washington and Harrisburg practices.

WHEN women vote, the death penalty will be abolished, except for rape; the inmates of those houses which are now the hot beds of all evil, will be sent to houses of correction, and there kept for life or years, doing light fancy work and domestic labor. All the legalized haunts of crime, which stand as rivals to virtuous homes, will, at least, have a struggle for life. Women will not work for half pay, and vice will not furnish her the most profitable employment, and all parties will grow better and wiser; or the principle of self-government is founded in error.

WANTS A NAME.—The new territory of Russian America, for which the U. S. Senate has bargained, is in want of a name. Many have been proposed, and amongst them many "jaw-breakers," only in vogue in such out of the way places as border on the Arctic Ocean. Whatever name is selected, we hope it will be nothing foreign. Give us something American, which Americans can pronounce. But first let us be sure we have it, when the House gets through with making the appropriation, before the name is thought of.

STATE SENATOR.—The people of this, the Twenty-first District, will have to elect next fall two Senators to fill the expired term of Louis W. Hall and Kirk Haines. Who will we get? By all means let them be good men; and one of them should certainly be from Huntingdon county. We recommend Mr. ——— well, we don't care who, so as he is the man for the position, honest and capable. Our people are to judge for themselves, and if politicians wish to judge for them, they should be made to know that we will have no more of it. The true man for any position is he who does not seek it to farm it. Past experience has demonstrated this, and our people should have seen enough to know it.

The Starving South.

The people of the South are starving, and we of the North are called upon to send them provisions and clothing. We trust there are none in our community, so dead to the promptings of charity as to refuse to give of their means to allay the pangs of starvation of their fellowmen, and we especially trust that there are none who will at this time call up old feelings of animosity and ill-will towards the Southern people. He that would do this can never hope the blessings of unity and peace to bind the now somewhat alienated people of the United States—in feeling if not in name. The unhappy differences that now exist between the two sections of this great nation must be obliterated, and we believe the present an opportune time to promote to a great degree that desirable object. To wound the feelings of an enemy we must treat him kindly; and if we would do much toward subduing the arrogant Southerners we should bestow charity, and show by our acts that we are willing to let by-gones be by-gones.

To show the extent of the suffering at the South the following incident may suffice: A delegation of ten or twelve gentlemen from Georgia and Alabama arrived at Louisville, Kentucky, a few days ago, clothed in "butternut," with pieces of carpet for shawls. They made earnest appeals for bread to keep their people from starving. They stated that deaths have already occurred from actual starvation, and that unless supplies soon reach them hundreds of destitute women and children will become the victims of famine. From hundreds of places at the South the cry for bread comes up. And now that an opportunity is offered at the public meeting at the Court House on Friday evening next, for our people to assist, we hope that some measures will be taken, and that the people of Huntingdon county will contribute liberally to this cause. We were about the first to show our patriotism; let us not be the last to show our charity.

☞The Berks and Schuylkill Journal, one of the ablest and best conducted Republican papers in the State, pitches into our legislature, and talks as honest men should talk and act. We give but a few lines of the article, and our readers will understand what action is thought necessary to protect the interests of the people:

"The subject of Legislative reform is one which is just now engaging the serious attention of the people of all political parties, not only in Pennsylvania but in most of the neighboring States. Bribery and corruption appears to be the rule, and honesty the exception among legislators everywhere.

* * * * * *

"Probably the most effectual way to bring about a reform, would be for the people of both parties to resolve to return no man to the Legislature who votes for any bill granting special privileges which are evidently paid for by the party interested. Let the people determine, over and above all party considerations, that the "Ring legislation" that has for years disgraced the State, shall be effectually broken up."

☞The nomination of Mr. John S. Miller as Postmaster of Huntingdon has been rejected by the Senate. And it is so that the office will bring no grist to the bin of that Miller.—Ebensburg Alleghanian.

Yes, but we have a Miller to whose bin the grist will come, and he is G. Ash. Miller. Now, please settle your hash, gentlemen, and don't say anything more about our post office. The heads of a half a dozen individuals have been bumped against that same old post, and that within the last two months. Post-office, adieu for the present.

Growth of the United States.

The territorial growth of the United States has been no less surprising than their growth in population. Beginning at the peace of 1783 with only 820,680 square miles, they added 889,579 by the purchase of Louisiana, 66,900 by the acquisition of Florida, 318,000 by the annexation of Texas, 308,052 by the Oregon treaty and 550,455 by the Mexican treaties. The Commissioner of the General land office in 1860 estimated the land area of the States and Territories at 2,943,257 square miles, or, including the Indian Territory, 3,010,277 square miles. The area of the Russian Possessions in America is computed at 481,275 square miles. The annexation of Russian America will swell the grand total of square miles embraced within the United States to 3,491,553. In a little more than eighty years the original dimensions of the republic will have thus expanded to an almost fourfold degree. No nation has ever enlarged its boundaries more rapidly to so great an extent, or made at less expense more valuable acquisitions. Each of these successive acquisitions has encountered opposition and has been attended with inconveniences, but the latter have all been counterbalanced by precious compensations This will doubtless prove to be the case with our last accession of territory, and our Fourth of July orators can boast with better reason than ever that ours is surely a "great country."

PROBABLE WAR IN EUROPE.—Ever since Prussia whipped Austria so speedily and completely, and thereby gained control of the whole of the German States, France has been considerably aggrieved. The fight that resulted so favorably to Prussia, has been the severest humiliation that Napolean has received for years. The territory gained by Prussia is now said to menace the frontier of France, and accordingly Napoleon, deeming the possession of Luxembourg indispensible for the military security of the French frontier, not long since commenced negotiation with the King of Holland for the purchase of the Grand Duchy, and its incorporation with the French empire; but as the fortress of Luxembourg, which is one of the strongest fortifications in Europe, is held by a Prussian garrison, and the Prussian government backed by the whole of Germany, firmly objects to the transfer of the Duchy to France, the King of Holland has withdrawn from any further negotiations on the subject. The French Emperor insists that his proposition shall be carried out, and the treaty completed. The national pride of France has been deeply wounded, and a wild anti-Prussian feeling has seized the country. Meantime, while the dispute is pending, both Prussia and France are making military preparations. The threatening state of affairs is the cause of the financial panic which now exists in London, Paris, and all the principal commercial cities of Europe.

MINE EXPLOSION.—A letter from Ashland, Schuylkill county, under date of the 15th inst., says: I send you the particulars, so far as can be ascertained, of the accident which occurred in the coal mine of Bancroft, Lewis & Co., near this place. About nine o'clock on Friday evening an explosion of fire damp took place, while twelve men were yet in the mine, eleven of whom were taken out dead. One man was rescued alive, but in a state of convulsive excitement, caused by the inhalation of sulphur, and raving to such an extent that it required the efforts of five men to hold him. He was placed under the medical treatment of Dr. Swain, of this place, who to day considered him out of danger, and in a fair way to a speedy recovery.

As to how the accident happened nothing is yet known, all those who could possibly give any information regarding the case or origin being killed, excepting Kinnir, the one mentioned above, whose medical attendant will not allow him to be questioned on the subject. The killed were buried yesterday.

THE RETIRING SENATORS.—The present Senate is composed of 21 Republicans and 12 Democrats, giving the Republicans a majority of 9. With the close of the present session eleven Senators retire by expiration of their terms, as follows:

3. C. M. Donovan, D.	14. John Wall, D.
5. Horace Royer, R.	21. Louis W. Hall, R.
6. Oliver P. James, D.	" Kirk Hains, R.

Another Big Gun.

A twenty-inch gun was cast at the Fort Pitt Foundry, Pittsburg, on Monday last, which makes the sixth of this calibre cast at these works.

The mould for this monster was placed in the pit on Wednesday last, the 10th instant. Seventy tons or 140,000 pounds of iron was placed in three furnaces ready for operations. In furnace No. 4, were 68,000 pounds, in No. 5, 36,800, and in No. 6, 36,200 pounds. Yesterday morning, at four o'clock and thirty minutes, the fires were lighted in the respective furnaces. Troughs were laid, leading from the furnaces to the pool near the pit. The trough leading from No. 4 was sixty feet in length, that from No. 6 twenty-five feet.

At eleven o'clock the three furnaces were tapped, and the molten metal commenced running to the pool. Two conduits led it from the pool to the pit, running it into opposite sides of the mould. The process of filling the mould occupied twenty-seven minutes, the flask being filled at twenty-seven minutes past eleven. While the metal was being run in, and subsequently, a stream of cold water was run in and out of the hollow core barrel of the mould at the rate of twenty gallons per minute. When the water commenced running it had a temperature of sixty degrees. In ten minutes its temperature had risen to 100 degrees, and in forty minutes to 120 degrees. The temperature of the water increased for about an hour.

The material of which the gun is cast is the best Juniata iron, made from Brown Hematite ore, at the Bloomfield furnace, about twelve miles from Hollidaysburg. The rough weight of the gun when taken from the mould will be 140,000 pounds, and when finished it will weigh 95,000 pounds. Its greatest rough diameter will be sixty-six inches; its diameter at the muzzle, forty-eight inches. The greatest diameter when finished will be sixty-four inches, and the diameter of the muzzle, 38x90 inches. The length of the finished gun will be one hundred and eighty-nine inches, and the length of the bore one hundred and fifty-seven inches. The depth of the pit in which it was cast is twenty six feet, and the depth of the mould, inside, twenty six feet and nine inches.

About two weeks will elapse before the great thing will be ready to take out. It will then be conveyed to the "proving ground" and tested, a ball one thousand pounds in weight being used. Nine charges of mammoth powder will then be employed, the first three charges being sixty pounds each, the second three eighty pounds each, and the third three one hundred pounds each.

The casting was as perfect a success as was ever achieved. The final destination of the gun had not been decided by the Ordnance Bureau when they ordered it.

The History of the Secret Service during the Rebellion, by General L. C. Baker, late Provost Marshal and Chief Detective of the War Department.—Philadelphia: P. GARRETT & Co.

The publication of this startling and highly interesting book will form an era in the historical literature of the late war. Historians of the Rebellion, both North and South, have been groping in the dark concerning many important phases in the history of the eventful period between April, 1861, and the spring of 1866. Now the chief custodian of the Government's secrets, he who took a most active part in all of the secret plans of the War Department, and who originated many of them, writes a book and divulges all the hitherto well kept historial secrets. General Baker makes a clean breast of the matter; he evidently has kept nothing in reserve that is of interest to the public. These revelations will create a profound sensation in all sections of the country, and even the vaunted Government police of Europe may learn lessons from this history. The late Chief Detective has screened no one, and there will be gnashing of teeth in the high places at Washington when the racy chapters of this secret history will become generally known. The work is complete in one handsome octavo volume of 700 pages, bound in durable and ornate binding, clearly printed on fine white paper, and embellished with seventeen superior engravings. Sold only by subscriptions through the publisher's authorized agents.

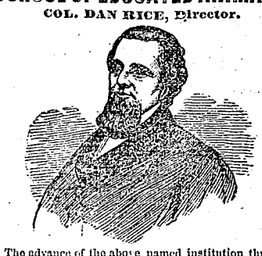
DAN RICE'S GREAT SHOW AND SCHOOL OF EDUCATED ANIMALS.

COL. DAN RICE, Director.



The advance of the above named institution through this section of the country is an event of the greatest importance to the public, as it is an organization combining all that is

Moral, Instructive, and Entertaining and discarding all the elements (found in so many traveling exhibitions) that would in the slightest degree prove offensive to the most sensitive and pious mind. The great show and animal school, under the immediate supervision of the distinguished scholar and humorist claims superiority over all its rivals in all the points essential to the perfection of a

COL. DAN RICE,

MORAL AND AMUSING EXHIBITION

The great event of the amusement world for the season of '67 is the re-entree of

DAN RICE,

in his popular role of the AMERICAN HUMORIST, or CLOWN TO THE ARENA. This event has only been brought about by the most earnest persuasion and the great desire of the public to once more behold this patriotic gentleman in his original character; and as this is more than probably Mr. Rice's

FAREWELL TOUR,

one should fail to hear his humorous and learned expositions of the GREAT EVENTS OF THE DAY. Remember, therefore, that

DAN RICE

WILL MOST POSITIVELY appear at each and every exhibition of the great show, assuredly without fail, as CLOWN TO THE ARENA.
The perfect equipment of the entire exhibition has been the study of the management, and everything will be found complete and elegant.
THE WAGONS, TRAPPINGS, &c., have been renovated and equipped in the MOST SUPERB MANNER; and in the

which will take place daily at about 10 A. M., will form a blaze of splendor seldom if ever equalled.
The Mammoth Pavilion will be complete in all its details, and will be so arranged as to afford the best possible accommodations to the public, while comfortable SEATS WILL BE PROVIDED FOR ALL.

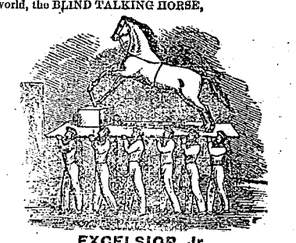
The Ring Performance, which is under the practised eye of COL. DAN RICE, will positively be, beyond doubt, the best in America.

DAN RICE

will daily introduce to his patrons a

Herd of Sacred Cattle!

The only ones in America, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. MR. RICE takes pleasure in stating that he will daily lecture on their history and peculiarities. He will also introduce the marvel of the scientific world, the BLIND TALKING HORSE,



EXCELSIOR, Jr.

A description of this intelligent creature would fail, as no pen can write or tongue describe his surprising exhibition of equine intelligence.
DAN RICE will also introduce the thorough-bred Arabian,

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS!

The original comic mules,

PETE AND BARNEY,

the only ones in America, all others being but base imitators, will also be introduced in their side-splitting comicalities.

The Equestrian corps consists of the following well known and able artists:

M'LLE ELVIRA, The beautiful Premiere Equestrienne.
MR. RICHARD HEMMINGS, The Non-pariel Horseman and finished Tight-Rope Artist.
Messrs. BROWN & SANFORD, The graceful masters of the School Gymnaze.
MR. JOHN FOSTER, The merry Clown and able Jester
MR. W. H. YOUNG, The excellent Gymnast and skilled Pantomimist.
MR. GEORGE BROWN, The dashing Equestrian.
MR. JOHN TREWALLA, The able and efficient Master of the Whip
MR. JAS. COOPER, The Modern Athlete. Together with MLLE. ROSA, MME. BAZZELL, LA PETITE LEONORA, AND MESSRS. HARMAN, BUCKLEY, DAVROY, WELSH, MORGAN AND LA CLARE.

☞THE GRAND ORCHESTRA

Of the great show is a marked feature, headed by the Great Maistro,

FRITZ MEYER, Esq.

The Pavilion will be brilliantly illuminated in the evening.

The Stud of Horses, Ponies and Mules

Has never been equalled in this country.

Don't Forget the Day and Date!

And prepare for the arrival of DAN RICE'S large, complete, and moral Exhibition.

TWO EXHIBITIONS EACH DAY,

Afternoon and Evening.

Doors open at 2 and 7 o'clock P. M. Exercises to commence half an hour later.
Admission, 50 cents; children under nine years, 25 cents.

Cure for dyspepsia and spring fever: Dig garden.

—Dr. Brumbaugh's child, which fell against a stove last week and burnt its arm, is recovering rapidly.

—Came to our door during the storm on Monday: A little baby—frock. As we have no use for it the owner can get it by calling at our Grocery store.

—A gentleman from Lewistown who was foolish enough to count his money in the cars found some person foolish enough to relieve him of $100 of it.

—Summers & McGill have opened out a Bakery at the Castilian Garden, and are prepared to furnish to their patrons bread, pies, cakes, &c.

—The Bedford Inquirer of a late date says that a real, genuine s-h-a-d was caught near the source of the Raystown Branch. Our fishermen should be on the alert to catch more at the mouth.

—The Legislature, before its adjournment, granted a change of venue to the Pennsylvania Railroad, to transfer the cases lately decided against them, in Cambria county, to Centre county.

—The Alleghany Fire Company of Hollidaysburg, like a quondam institution of ye ancient borough, has collapsed into nonentity. Reason is, the "boys" weren't privileged to stick to the machine on Sunday.

—The people from adjoining counties come to Huntingdon to buy goods. We wouldn't be surprised to see western merchants stopping here to purchase instead of going to the eastern cities for their supplies.

—A man named Price gave a public exhibition of his agility at wire-walking on Thursday afternoon last, on a wire stretched from the top of the Exchange hotel to the Railroad building—a height of about sixty feet. Luckily, no accident occurred to the lofty tumbler, although he performed some difficult feats.

—The farmers who have produce to sell get big prices for all they bring to market, and have the pleasure of purchasing store goods at ante-war prices. The enterprising Huntingdon merchants don't intend that anybody shall complain of their prices being too high. Consult our columns to know where to buy cheap.

Accident.

On Saturday morning last Mr. John Coder, a carpenter of this place, had the ends of his four fingers and thumb, on his left hand, taken off by the machinery at Burchinell's planing mill. John was an industrious young man, and we are sorry that the accident has happened him.

☞Tickle your palate at the Eureka Garden of R. Westbrook. *

Defeated.

The temperance people of this place got up an unconditional remonstrance against all the tavern keepers of this place, last week, and notwithstanding said remonstrance was signed by many citizens, yet the Court thought best to grant the licenses.

☞A fine assortment of Balmoral Hoop Skirts for sale at Glazier & Bro's. †

Robbery.

The store room of Cunningham & Carmon was entered on Friday night last by two individuals, and robbed of about twenty-five dollars which was in the money drawer. Mr. Cunningham was apprised of their entrance, but before he had time to reach the store the scamps had left, taking the money-drawer with them, and dropping it near Williams marble shop. Nothing but the money was missed.

☞Popular with the People.—Dan Rice is popular with the people and so is A. L. Lewis' cheap store with all who have been fortunate enough to buy goods there. †

☞The man Matthews has been found guilty of the charges brought against him for burning Gosheon's barn in Tell township, and shooting his two horses. On Friday evening last the Judge sentenced him to fifteen years in the Western Penitentiary. This sentence which the culprit took very coolly is severe but just, but no one can object to seeing such malice and audacity as was evinced by him most severely punished. We hope never to have a like crime again tried in our Court.

☞Dan Rice will be here next Monday with his herd of sacred cattle, his horse Excelsior, and a troupe of excellent performers.

A Post Master at Last.

G. Ash. Miller, the first appointment rejected by the Senate, was on Thursday last renominated by the President, and confirmed by the Senate. We believe this action of the President and Senate gives universal satisfaction—(Nash & Co., excepted, as they didn't get the selling price of the office.) Mr. Miller has always been a stiff member of the "Democratic organization" and it must be said to his credit that he refused to pay the price, or any price at all, to secure the influence of Nash & Co, that he might be confirmed. If Mr. Miller was too much of a "Copperhead" to be favored by the editors of the Journal & American, would he have been less a "Copperhead" had he given them the $500 demand? "Polly wanted a cracker," but didn't get it.

While we did not think it fair and honorable in the President to appoint men to office who did not help to elect him to the high position he occupies, we could and most willingly do endorse the appointment of Mr. Miller, because he is a worthy man and makes an excellent Post Master.

Dialogue.

The scene is laid in the parlor of a town not a thousand miles off; the period, the present day—Act 1. Enter Mrs. Fashion with her daughters, Miss Exquisite and Miss Beautiful.

Mrs. Fashion—Why, Mrs. Particular, where did you get that splendid style of Wall Paper?

Miss Beautiful—It is really beautiful!

Miss Exquisite—It is grand! superb! exquisite!

Mrs. Particular—Well, ladies, I got that Wall Paper that you like so well at Lewis' Book Store, last week. I got just what I wanted.

Mrs. Fashion—We must have some of the same paper.

Daughters—Yes, indeed, we cannot do without it.

Great Show.

All persons coming to Huntingdon to see the circus next Monday, should not forget to call and see A. L. Lewis' Great Show in Liester's New Building. He does not charge anything for showing the Elephant Go and see him. †

A Collector of Revenue Confirmed.

W. J. Rose, of the Cambria Iron Works, Johnstown, was nominated and confirmed as Collector of Internal Revenue for this district on Wednesday last. Mr. Royer, former Collector, will perform the duties of the office, with Rev. J. C. Clark continued as Deputy. This arrangement is quite as satisfactory as any other proposed programme would have been. Swapping horses is a trade, and the President, Senators and Representatives had no time to do better than they did.

☞The Eureka Garden on Church street is open for the season. *

Admitted to the Bar.

On motion of R. Milton Speer, Esq., our young and talented friend Mr. P. H. Sangree, was admitted to the bar on Monday, the 8th inst. Mr. Sangree applied himself diligently to his studies while in the office of Scott, Brown & Bailey, and passed a very creditable examination, although he has been pursuing his studies less than two years. We wish our young "limb of the law" abundant success, wherever he may conclude to hang out his shingle.

Agricultural Meeting.

A meeting of the Agricultural Society of Huntingdon county, was held at the Court House on Tuesday evening April 16th, and called to order by Graffus Miller, President of the Society.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and no objections being suggested they were adopted.

Mr. Orbison gave his reasons for not being prepared to deliver an address as requested at the last meeting; he was on motion of Mr. Speer excused and requested to deliver one at the next regular meeting of the Society in August next.

Mr. Lewis moved that a county Fair be held next Fall, the time to be fixed by the Society at the August meeting. Adopted

Messrs. Lewis, Miller, and Cremer, expressed their views upon the manner in which the awarding committies should be appointed.

Mr. Orbison then offered the following:

Resolved, That the Vice Presidents direct the attention of the farmers of their respective Districts to the importance of attending the meeting in August, by themselves or representatives, as their advice and assistance will be needed in selecting Judges and appointing committies. Adopted.

Mr. Speer moved that the President appoint a committee of five to prepare a Premium List, to be presented at the August meeting for consideration. Adopted.

The President appointed as said committee, R. M. Speer, Esq., D. Blair, Esq., David Hare, Hon. Wm. B. Leas, and Col. John S. Miller.

Mr. Blair moved that said committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of substituting Specific articles for Premiums instead of money. Adopted.

Mr. Orbison moved that the proceeding of this meeting and the names of the officers of the Society, be published in all the county papers. Adopted.

On motion, the Society adjourned until Tuesday evening of the first week of the August Court.

Dan Rice's Great Show.

Our many readers will receive, with more than ordinary pleasure, the announcement in our advertising columns, this morning, of the speedy visit of the great wit of the arena, Dan Rice, with his suite of equestrian acrobatic and calisthenic "stars," and famed school of trained animals. The humorous and popular Dan promises to signalize his farewell appearance by assuming, for the first time in several years, his unapproachable role of clown. This is suggestive of an oratorical and mirth-provoking treat that needs no aid of ours to irresistibly attract.

Mr. Rice will introduce his rare herd of sacred cattle, the sole representatives of their beautiful species ever exported from the far off Land of the Rising Sun, where they are objects of devout worship. Also, his marvel of equine sagacity, the blind talking horse, Excelsior, Jr.; the magnificent thoroughbred thick horse, "Stephen A Douglas;" those clowns of the animal kingdom, the comic mules Pete and Barney, and a troupe of semi civilized monkeys.

Altogether we are promised a varied, highly entertaining and entirely unexceptionable exhibition, which will undoubtedly attract eager thousands.

ROAD-MAKING.—The following hints upon this subject we find as worthy of consideration, and as in the spring much time is devoted to repairing and making roads, we give them for the benefit of farmers and others:

In road-making, one great requisite is the ready and total removal of all water There cannot be a good road where water stands by the side of or on it. If the ditches have no ready outlet, the road bed will soak up the moisture more or less, by capillary attraction, and thus remain rutted and muddy. It is vain to think of having a good road on a subsoil filled with stagnant water: Even on side hills, if water remains on the upper side, it will injure the road by passing under. Provide, then, if possible, for the thorough drainage of your roads, either by surface or covered ditches. See that the road bed is evenly and slightly rounded, so that the water can readily find its way to the drains. If the soil is clayey or loamy, give it a few inches of gravel, or even coarse sand, and you will have a fine and pleasant passage way. If the soil is sandy, it needs an addition of clay to correct it, and this will correct it so that good roads may be had over the lightest sandy soils.

TO OWNERS OF CANARIES.—Many a person has seen a pet canary or other birds in a state of perturbation, plucking at himself continually, his feathers standing all wrong. In vain is his food changed, and in vain is a saucer of clean water always kept in his cage. The cause of his wretchedness has not been found out. If the owner of a pet in such difficulties will take down the cage and look up to the roof thereof, there will most likely be seen a mass of stuff like a red rust. The red rust is nothing more or less than myriads of parasites infesting the bird, and for which water is no remedy. By procuring a lighted candle and holding it under every particle of the cage till all chance of anything being left alive is gone, the remedy is complete. The pet will soon brighten up after his "house-warming."

SUCCESS IN STOCK BREEDING.—Who are the most successful men in breeding stock of any kind? They are those who, in the first place, purchase the best of the kind, of either cattle, horses, sheep, swine, or fowl, that can be obtained. In the next, they give them the best shelter, food and care, that can be given; and these men are always successful, and make it a profitable business. And just in proportion as you vary from these essential points, will it be a profit or a loss in keeping any kind of stock. The one that makes a profit is the one who gives the best care and attention to his stock. The one who finds it an exponse is the one who lets them care for themselves.

HOW TO AVOID DAMP WALLS.—The following is a good remedy for damp walls: Three-quarters of a pound of mottled soap to one gallon of water. This composition to be laid over the brick work steadily and carefully with a large flat brush so as not to form a froth or lather on the surface. The wash to remain twenty-four hours, to become dry. Mix half a pound of alum with four gallons of water; leave it stand for twenty-four hours, and then apply it in the same manner over the coating of soap. Let this be done in dry weather.

LICE ON CATTLE.—W. G. Wardenhall, Jefferson Co., says that "knowing larkspur seed would destroy lice on human beings, he collected a quart of strong vinegar, and then applied it with a sponge to all parts of the animals; has never seen louse or nit since." T. F. Haynes, Hartford Co., Conn., writes to the Agriculturalist: "I keep lice off my cattle by keeping sulphur and salt in winter where they can lick it when they choose; my cattle have had none since I practised this."

HORSES need very thorough grooming, and the feet and legs should be washed and kept clean, long fetlocks trimmed off, and any redness or cracking of the skin or heels treated with pine tar and grease, or an ointment of lard and turpentine. These applications are either of them very good for chaffed shoulders, sprains, or harness galls. Blanket carefully if exposed to the wind or cold when warm.

PERSONAL SUPERVISION.—Attend every day to your stock and crops. Blessed is that farmer who attends to his stock, and sees that their every want is regularly supplied. No one can do this like the farmer. Watch them closely, and you will be surprised how much more interest you will take in them yourself, and your men will derive new exertions from your presence in the barns and in your meadows.

PRESERVING MEAT.—A correspondent of the Maine Farmer, says, "many a housewife may be glad to know, when she has a piece of fresh meat she wishes to keep a few days, that it can be successfully done by placing it in a dish and covering it with buttermilk. I have practised the plan for years."

HORSE DISTEMPER.—In reply to a question in the Rural American, in regard to a cure for horse distemper, my cure is to feed pretty freely of ground mustard seed andsulphur. Avoid exposure, over-heating and cooling off quickly.

PROF. J. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dispate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

PHOTOGRAPH

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 10 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" formanarch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with cambic and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down steops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the f llowing inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs' upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.
